From Sunday's St. Louis Post-Dispach: "What is probably the very fastest run from St. Louis to Arcadia, Mo., was made in a Dorris six cylinder touring car driven by H. B. Krenning, president of the Dorris Motor Car Co., on Friday, September 22d. The trip was made as follows: leaving Grand and Olive street at 1 P. M., De Soto was reached at 3 P. M., Flat River at 3:55 P. M. and Arcadia at 5:05 P. M., making the overall time four hours and five minutes. Ten minutes were lost at Meramec river. The crossing was blocked by freight train and at Bismarck five minutes were lost, due to a passenger train; almost ten minutes were lost in waiting for the ferry to cross the Meramec."

If you go to the city, use No. 4 for the purpose. It goes right along. No dawdling, no stopping at cross-roads, or milk-canning. No; Bismarck, De Soto and Fourth Street make the sum of the stoppages preceding Union Station. This is mighty agreeable to the traveler intent on his destination, the traveler intent on his destination, who sees things from different point of view than that of the wayside would-be passenger. Last Thursday I broke the shackles of home surveek:

you ever abide a lady's "five min31 to 25 in favor of Caledonia. uter" in one of these places? It not, you are minus an instructive experience, though, as the oft-quoted old Tony Weller would say, whether it is worth while going through so much to learn so little, is a question. Leaving the dry goods emporiums we dodged our way to the type foundry, down on Third Street. The neighbor-hood has no enchanting look: moldering walls, frowzy windows and ill-kept pavements, encumbered with numerous specimens of dirty, un-kempt loungers, odorous with bad whiskey and sickening eigarettes. The locality is not an inviting one, and the unsophisticated would not choose it for promenating after night-fall. A few minutes sufficed for my fall. A few minutes sufficed for my ransactions at the foundry, in itself a wholesome contrast to its surroundings. Returning, we saw two police-men in charge of a prisoner awaiting the coming of the hoodlum wagon. The prisoner was standing against a telephone pole, inert, eyes closed, maudlinly powerless, and perforce non-resisting. I thought how absolutely secure are the lives and property of the people in a city which devotes the service of two big, stalwart guardians to one helpless "drunk!" Down here in Ironton, Fisher unassisted would have taken him to the lock-up in a wheel-barrow and thought nothing of it.

The white safety lines and the traffic police these days shear the city street-crossings of the danger and perturbation that formerly at-tended them. The pedestrian now has some rights which the automobile is made to respect. It cannot with impunity "pussy-foot" him into eter-nity, and he can easily avoid collision with the street cars and other vehicles We returned to the family habitation in the evening without let or mishap. Saturday was devoted to a good deal of sight-seeing and a small sprinkle of business. On our way to the music house on Pine street we met a policeman having in charge three boys, ranging in age from eleven to fourteen I felt sorry for the youngsters and said to my companion, "What can they have been doing?" A gentleman overheard me. "Stealing bicyles," he said; "the Reformatory for them." I hope the institution will make good its name to them. At night we went to the Garrick and saw the play, "Experience." It was good, and left a clean, wholesome impression upon the understanding. But I think the orchestra was suffering from hookworm or some similar enervation. It seemed to be a-weary and-excepting the flute, the zylo-phone and drums-devoid of energy. Maybe, though, the fault was in me I may not understand the concord of sweet sounds etherially rendered.

Sunday I returned home on No. 3. The train was crowded even to the sleepers; but the trip was quickly and comfortably made. I had the good fortune to meet Dr. and Mrs. Eaton of Bismarck returning from Mount Vernon and the companionship short-ened the way. The Doctor is a con-genial comrade. It's good to go abroad once every few years, but isn't the return home a mighty pleasant feature in the adventure?

It looked like a city on the hills. It was about 8 o'clock and the streets were crowded with men and women shopping. They have a fine road from Flat River to Iron-

I hear nothing but politics where ever I go. I wish it was over. I nev-er knew business so good in a presi-dential campaign. It is on account of the war, I suppose. I look for a hard time this winter. After December the railroads witl cut off hundreds of men, and the high prices will make it hard on the laborer. The tie business, I think, will keep up all winter. At Glen Allen, B. Johnson, the old stave man, has bought 17,000 acres of timber and is working 200 men, making ties.

WE TOLD YOU SO.

Over twenty-five years ago we helped to organize the first mutual tornado insurance company at Rock Port, Mo., and the first mutual tornado insurance company in the state of Missouri. The wise men of that time told us we would fall in this underaking in less than five years, but, behold our mutuals have outlived a quarter of a century and have paid out over $200,000 in losses. Our companies insure brick business houses and contents and frame and brick dwellings and contents in towns and cities in Missouri and automobiles anywhere in Missouri, against loss or damage by fire, lightning, tornadoes, cyclones and windstorms, and farm property against tornadoes, any where n the state of Missouri. In the State Mutual Automobile Ins. Co. the insurance is good anywhere in the United States or Canada.

The Rock Port Mutual Ins. Co.'s have over fifteen million dollars in assessable capital, as can be seen by our newbook of information, containing ten thousand names, that is now ready to mail free to anyone wanting a copy. Sample can be seen at the office of the REGISTER.

Agents wanted in each town in Missouri.
